

Hungary

A. National Policies	We cannot measure the development of the field of cultural policy. The functioning of cultural institutions to ensure equal opportunities in education is guaranteed by law 1997/140.
B. National implementation strategies of UNESCO Culture Conventions	No answer
C. Access to decision-making	The Fundamental Law of Hungary ensures equal opportunity for men and women, and participation in decision-making can be guaranteed. A senior executive or managerial position can be filled by a woman, who will be selected based on their professional experience.
D. Education, Capacity-Building and Training	In the cultural field, training aims at helping the social integration of applicants in small villages. Women are a target group of support. The non-formal and informal extracurricular learning activities, such as study groups, camps, etc. carried out by cultural institutions contribute to the facilitation of women's employment, since the supervision and education of the children are resolved.
E. Access to credit and financial resources allocation	Women can acquire a business; obtain financial resources in the cultural field, without any discrimination. Many businesses in the crafts and cultural tourism are owned by women.
F. Visibility and awareness-raising	There is currently no quota system that would promote positive discrimination for women. Campaigns tend to initiate civil society, public service media, family-friendly magazine, women's magazine programmes are available (family-friendly magazine, Ridikül).
G. Statistics and Indicators	The Hungarian cultural statistical data collections are regulated by the National Statistical Data Collection Programme in government decree. The following separated data collections are carried out annually in collaboration with the Ministry of Human Resources: libraries, archives, museums, cultural institutions, theatres, zoos, cinemas, concert organization. Hungarian Central Statistical Office is responsible for data collections on the publishing of books and magazines, television and radio broadcasting. None of them has gender data. There are surveys which contain some cultural information: Labour Force Survey (LFS), Adult Education Survey (AES) and Time Use Survey (TUS). LFS collects data on cultural occupation by gender as well. The Hungarian Central Statistical Office conducts TUS every 10 years. The last one took place in 2009/2010. The objective of measuring time use is to give a description of the living conditions, lifestyle and time use of the population. There are data on cultural and leisure-time activities (such as reading, watching television, listening to radio etc.) of the population by gender as well. The Adult Education Survey is carried out every 5 year according to EP and Council Regulation Nr 452/2008. There are some variables concerning cultural activities of the adult (between 25-64 years old) population. The last survey was conducted in 2012.
