Comments on the project by UNESCO partners

"It was a matter of great honor and pleasure being part of the 'Cultural Mapping Project' initiated by UNESCO Islamabad. As an anthropologist and a filmmaker, I got the opportunity of documenting different aspects of both tangible and intangible cultural heritage of Pakistan and than sharing it with a larger audience. It not only reinforced pride in my cultural heritage but I was able to witness the same amongst the communities that I interacted with. Congratulations to UNESCO for initiating this meaningful project and Ms Farhat Gul in particular for her tireless efforts and commitment to it". Samar Minallah, Executive Director, Ethnomedia

"UNESCO has created history by selecting GIS as a tool for capturing the cultural tangible and intangible information. This would not only assure the preservation of information but also increase the visibility of our cultural assets many folds. The case history of UNESCO Islamabad can be a role model for many countries in the future." Yawer Saeed Ansari, Consultant/GIS Expert

"UNESCO's cultural mapping project has successfully introduced an important tool to the rapidly expanding toolbox for heritage practitioners and activists seeking to identify and preserve Pakistan's rich heritage. Through this project the idea that heritage is diverse and living and framed by its owners has reached many, not just in the study areas but nationwide." Dr. Ayesha Pamela Rogers, Academic Coordinator, Center for Cultural Heritage Conservation & Management, National College of Arts, Lahore

“A Teachers Resource Kit Heritage In Young Hands has been developed successfully and is ready for dissemination in formal and non formal schools country wide and globally. This project was conceived on the lines of UNESCO’s World Heritage In Young Hands. It is an endeavour to inspire youth in Pakistan and globally to learn about, their heritage, take pride in, and actively participate in its preservations and promotion through interdisciplinary project based learning. It offers background information pedagogical guide lines, proposes, classroom and hands on activities. The kit offers knowledge skills and forging of attitudes having direct relevance to Pakistan’s culture and sustainable futures. It offers an exciting journey through their outstanding magnificent heritage sites.” Nasreen Iqbal, Director, Grammar School, Rawalpindi

“Working with the craftswomen of Districts Bahawalpur, Multan and DG Khan in the UNESCO-Norway funded Project “Empowering Women through Crafts” was a challenging experience. The transfer of design development and management skills, to village based artisans, in a short period of six months seemed daunting in the beginning but as the Project unfolded we were all amazed at the immense opportunities that the experience offered to all participants, the artisans, designers and trainers. At the closure all were enriched through this successful experience. We are thankful to UNESCO for this opportunity”. Sajida

Haider Vandal, Executive Director, THAAP

“The Cultural Mapping project initiated by UNESCO Islamabad is considered extremely vital to identify and document the cultural assets under huge threat. The information/ data collected by applying various tools and techniques and engaging communities is considered the most accurate and authentic cultural repository developed in a most contemporary and sophisticated methodology. It becomes a road map to safeguarding of cultural elements, strengthening communities and their resources and socio-economic empowerment of a society. It is also used as an effective tool to revitalize and develop national harmony, intercultural dialogue, appreciate and celebrate rich and diverse cultural heritage. The most important objective of cultural mapping is to invite and associate communities, build up healthy and congenial environment, encourage sense of pride and ownership.

In spite of all kinds of constraint, UNESCO has contributed tremendously towards identifying, training and guiding community-based groups and individuals, documenting, recording and assessing cultural heritage. The initiative has indeed paved way for many to identify and share, explore and educate, preserve and safeguard their cultural heritage, both tangible and intangible, for posterity.”

Mussarrat Nahid Imam, Director National Art Gallery, Islamabad

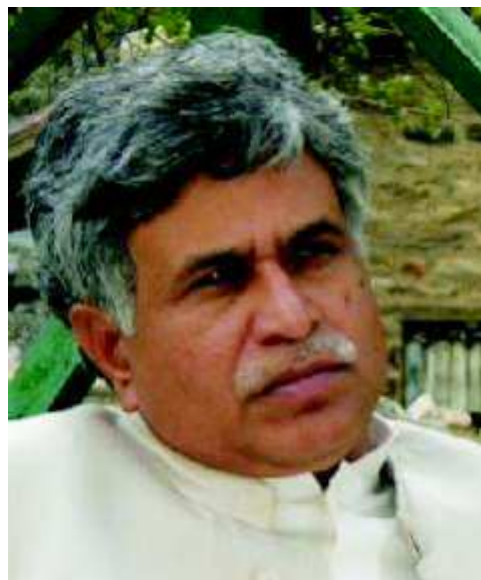

“We feel honored that we got an opportunity to work with the excellent staff of UNESCO Pakistan on the Project: ‘Mapping of Cultural Assets in District Bahawalpur, Multan & Vehari’ won through an international bidding. We were able to meet all our commitments within stipulated time with the smooth implementation of the contract. The process of cultural mapping was useful not only in the data produced but also in leaving behind a group of trained and sensitized individuals. Their further impact on the local population in terms of inculcating value for cultural assets and the need to preserve them for posterity is immeasurable. A network has developed among the persons who worked in the field with us and they are trying to continue the mapping exercise, at a reduced scale, on their own.” Pervaiz Vandal, CEO, Pervaiz Vandal & Associates (PVA), Lahore

“We being a national governmental cultural body owe abundant thanks to UNESCO for undertaking this most desirable and most significant project. We always have had a deep wish to document our national cultural assets more and more systematically and meticulously. While our efforts in this regard were bit unsystematic and bit directionless and we could never develop a milestone like this. The said project will not only provide us with clear orientations and make us more systematic in our endeavors of documenting our cultural assets but also help support us in revival of our cultural heritage by spotlighting the endangered heritage elements. We expect that UNESCO will also help us in future in finding potential donors and partners for extending cultural mapping project countrywide.” Khalid Javaid, Executive Director, Lok Virsa.

“As an archaeologist, it is my great privilege to highlight that Pakistan houses many cultures and civilizations dated back to more than 2 million years, representing all phases of development of human race and society, ranging from the Early Stone Age to the British Rule. Keeping in view, the importance of Pakistan’s Cultural Heritage, in 2007, a research project was launched by UNESCO under the Norwegian Fund, aiming to identify and map both Tangible and Intangible Cultural Assets in the selected districts of Pakistan. As Vice Chancellor of Hazara University, Mansehra and then Abdul Wali Khan University, Mardan. I got the opportunity to train and supervise my team on the Cultural Mapping Methodology. As a result of strong mobilization, a total of 221 Tangible & Intangible Assets in District Mansehra and 134 Cultural Assets in the District Mardan were mapped. Under this project, through Youth Awareness Programme, numerous community meetings were arranged in order to create awareness among the locals about their rich Cultural Heritage and to develop the sense of ownership among them.

This effort of UNESCO has opened the door for future planning and it is sincerely hoped that research on the subject will continue to carry forward for the benefit of all, as I believe that Pakistan’s rich cultural heritage deserve much more attention from national and international scholars, researchers and managers.

I am hopeful, that UNESCO’s efforts, coupled with local stakeholders, will soon make Pakistan’s Heritage one of the strongest destinations for the tourists of parts of the world.”

Dr. Ihsan Ali, Vice Chancellor, Abdul Wali Khan University, Mardan

“If one were to single out the most valuable aspect of the cultural mapping project, it must be said that the community-ownership of the process stands out - all the field work in Chitral was carried out by Local Support Organisations (LSOs). For the Aga Khan Cultural Service Pakistan (AKCS-P) partnering UNESCO in the cultural mapping project for Chitral district in Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa, enabled not only an extension of the coverage from the Karakoram (Gilgit-Baltistan) to the Hindukush, but has also provided data, information, linkages and most importantly has helped develop community awareness and support for initiation of a cultural development and environmental management programme in Chitral.”

Salman Beg, Chief Executive Officer, AKCS-P
