INTERNATIONAL DECADE FOR PEOPLE OF AFRICAN DESCENT

2015 ▶ 2024

RECOGNITION · JUSTICE · DEVELOPMENT

THE SLAVE TRADE OUT OF AFRICA 1501-1900

Captive Africans were taken by many routes from their homeland to other parts of the world. After 1500, the route across the Atlantic was taken by far the largest number.

"This Decade is a historic opportunity. It is my hope that it will inspire all of us to grasp the deep harm that is done by discrimination, and to work tirelessly to put an end to this injustice."

1. WHAT ARE THE OBJECTIVES OF THE DECADE?

The overall objective of the Decade is to promote respect, protection and fulfilment of ALL human rights and fundamental freedoms by people of African descent, as recognized in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

(IN PARTICULAR)

STRENGTHENING
national, regional and international action for the full enjoyment of all their rights;

PROMOTING
greater knowledge of and respect for their diverse heritage, culture and contribution to the development of societies;

ADOPTING
and strengthening national, regional and international legal frameworks.

2. WHY A DECADE FOR PEOPLE OF AFRICAN DESCENT?

There are around 200 million people of African descent living in the Americas. Many millions more live in other parts of the world, outside of the African continent.

Across the globe, Africans and the African diaspora continue to suffer inequality and disadvantage because of the legacy of slavery and colonialism. People of African descent are amongst the poorest and most marginalized. They may experience discrimination in their access to justice, and face high rates of police violence and racial profiling.

The International Decade paves the way for cooperation among States, international and regional organizations, and civil society to improve the human rights situation and well-being of people of African descent.

3. WHAT IS THE PROGRAMME OF ACTIVITIES FOR THE INTERNATIONAL DECADE?

The Programme of Activities for the International Decade, adopted by the UN General Assembly in 2014, in resolution 69/16, outlines specific actions to be taken in the three thematic areas of: recognition, justice and development.

The Programme lists concrete, practical actions to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance faced by people of African descent which should be taken by States at the national level and by the international community, international and regional organizations at the international and regional levels. The High Commissioner for Human Rights was designated by the General Assembly as coordinator of the Decade, tasked with following up on the implementation of the activities for the International Decade.
