17. The situation in Afghanistan

During the period under review, the Security Council held nine meetings and adopted three resolutions and two presidential statements on the situation in Afghanistan.

The Council focused on the political transition, including the presidential elections and formation of the National Unity Government, as well as on the security transition to full responsibility of the Afghan National Security Forces (ANSF) nationwide following the reduction of international military forces. The Council discussed the role of the United Nations, inter alia, in the election process, international aid coordination, good offices and the peace process, the fight against drug trafficking, the promotion of human rights, provision of humanitarian assistance, and economic and social development.

The Council recognised the gains made by Afghanistan since the fall of the Taliban in 2001 and condemned the violent and terrorist activities inter alia by the Taliban, Al-Qaida and other violent and extremist groups.⁶⁷ The Council also stressed the importance of a comprehensive and inclusive, Afghan-led and Afghan-owned political process in Afghanistan,⁶⁸ and called on all political entities to work together in accordance with the Afghan Constitution, with the aim of strengthening Afghanistan's sovereignty, independence, territorial integrity and national unity in order to achieve a peaceful and prosperous future for all the people of Afghanistan.⁶⁹

By resolutions 2145 \(2014\) and 2210 \(2015\), respectively, the Council extended the mandate of the United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan (UNAMA)⁷⁰ twice for periods of one year each. Pursuant to resolution 2210 \(2015\), the Tripartite Commission, comprising of representatives of the Government, the international donor community, UNAMA and affiliated agencies, funds and programmes, was established and embarked on examining the role, structure and activities of all United Nations entities in Afghanistan.

⁶⁷ Resolution 2210 \(2015\).

⁶⁸ Resolution 2189 \(2014\).

⁶⁹ S/PRST/2014/11.

⁷⁰ For more information on the mandate of UNAMA, see part X, sect. II with regard to political and peacebuilding missions.
