FOREWORD

Great moments in sport, which offer up extraordinary and unforgettable displays of physical and mental prowess, are thrilling to witness. The men and women who amaze us with their sporting skills bring joy to countless numbers of people all over the world. The Olympic and Paralympic Games are the best illustration of the common aspiration to excel in an atmosphere of respect and positive energy.

Yet high-level sporting events are sometimes tarnished by the unsporting and unhealthy practice of doping. It makes a sad spectacle indeed when an admired sporting champion is stripped of a medal or trophy, shamefaced, after being caught using performance-enhancing drugs.

Incidents of this kind undermine public confidence in sport, and ultimately affect its ability to foster essential social ties, mutual respect and understanding. This is of particular concern to UNESCO, because these values are at the core of the agency's peace-building mandate.

The International Convention against Doping in Sport is a vital mechanism in global efforts to eliminate drug use in sports. Since its entry into force in 2007, more than 160 countries have aligned their legislation and policies with the Convention, helping governments the world over to act in concert with one another, and with the Sports Movement, to bring an end to doping.

There is more work to be done. The illicit use of drugs to boost strength and endurance is still too prevalent in athletic circles, and there is evidence that the ability of governments to act has been diminished by the global financial crisis.

The Fund for the Elimination of Doping in Sport (the Fund), established by Article 17 of the Convention, has been designed to ensure that all governments are able to play an active role in stamping out doping in sport. Dedicated funding has been set aside to help States Parties implement the Convention. This assistance can be used for preventative education programs, for the alignment of legislation, regulations or policies with the Convention, or other activities that will help them to build anti-doping capacity.

By mobilizing financial resources, as well as identifying good practices and needs, UNESCO intends to ensure the fight against doping in sport succeeds. I strongly encourage States Parties to follow the practical advice contained in this Handbook and to apply for assistance.

INTRODUCTION

The Convention makes two significant contributions to the world of sport. It provides a mechanism which binds governments to the fight against doping in sport, complementary to the World Anti-Doping Code and the actions being undertaken by WADA and the Sport Movement. The Convention also provides much-needed financial resources to achieve its overarching objective – to promote the prevention of and the fight against doping in sport, with a view to its elimination.

The establishment of the Fund was a pragmatic decision. It was clear during the preparation of the Convention that a number of governments would require assistance in the fight against doping in sport. Policy advice, the sharing of best practice and a range of assistance including technical support were required. The establishment of anti-doping institutions was also necessary. At the same time, UNESCO was conscious that governments around the world have to manage limited financial resources. There are always competing priorities when it comes to making budget allocations. While UNESCO places considerable importance on anti-doping, it should not detract or draw investment away from the achievement of Education for All and the Sustainable Development Agenda. Therefore, a mechanism was established so that all States Parties could obtain assistance to help them meet their obligations under the Convention.

The Conference of Parties to the Convention has taken a number of decisions concerning the Fund. Over five sessions it has refined the criteria, conditions and procedures for submission of applications to the Fund.¹ The amounts of funding available for national as well as sub-regional, inter-regional or regional projects have also increased. However, the three priority areas for the investment of the resources of the Fund, identified in accordance with Article 30 1(c) of the Convention, have remained in place since the First Session.

This document sets out the manner in which the resources of the Fund will be allocated in accordance with the decisions taken by the four sessions of the Conference of Parties (see Annex 1: Resolution 1CP/7, Annex II: Resolution 2CP/4.3 and Annex III: Resolution 3CP/6.3) and Annex IV: Resolution 5CP/7). It seeks to clarify in particular the application process by States Parties.

¹ First Session of the Conference of Parties (5-7 February 2007), Second Session (26-28 October 2009), Third Session (14-15 November 2011), Fourth Session (19-20 September 2013) and Fifth Session (29-30 October 2015).

I. WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE FUND?

The primary purpose of the Fund is to help States Parties to meet their obligations under the Convention.² As set forth in Article 18, resources under the Fund will be allocated to assist States Parties to develop and implement anti-doping programmes in accordance with the Convention. Broadly this means programmes which enhance: (1) anti-doping activities at the national level; (2) international cooperation; (3) education and training; and (4) research. These are the four principle thematic areas of the Convention, which contain a number of obligations for States Parties. However, more specific priority areas have subsequently been articulated by the Conference of Parties.

Alignment with the goals of the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA)

Article 18 of the Convention states that the goals of WADA should be taken into consideration when it comes to the use and governance of the Fund. The intent behind this provision is that all projects under the Fund should complement those under the World Anti-Doping Program for which WADA has overall responsibility. Implicit in this article of the Convention is the desire to avoid duplication. It is important that limited resources are used to best effect in the fight against doping in sport. Accordingly, WADA has been invited to assist the Approval Committee responsible for the allocation of funds.

² The Fund may also serve to cover some of the functioning costs of the Convention, as approved by the Conference of Parties.

II. WHO CAN APPLY?

Article 18 of the Convention, as well as Resolution 1CP/7, Resolution 2CP/4.3, Resolution 3CP/6.3 and Resolution 5CP/7 adopted by the Conference of Parties, are very precise about who may benefit from the Fund's resources. It is restricted to States Parties. Only those governments who have ratified, accepted, approved or acceded to the Convention, and in so doing have a legal commitment to comply with all its provisions, require assistance with its implementation.

Assistance with the ratification, acceptance, approval or accession to the Convention

If Member States of UNESCO require assistance with adherence to the Convention, to enable them to become States Parties, the Convention Secretariat is able to provide advice and technical assistance. However, no financial disbursements will be made to Member States under the Fund for this purpose.

III. WHAT ARE THE PRIORITY AREAS FOR THE FUND?

The Conference of Parties identified three priority areas for the allocation of the Fund. The first priority is education projects focusing on youth and sports organizations. Such is the importance attached to education, it was agreed that half of the Fund should be allocated to education projects. Secondly, States Parties are able to apply for assistance with policy advice. This broad term encapsulates the development of legislation, regulation, policies and administrative practices for the purposes of complying with the Convention. Thirdly, funding is available for mentoring and capacity development programmes.

These priorities will remain in place until the Sixth Session of the Conference of Parties, scheduled for the final quarter of 2017.

Least developed or low income States Parties

The Conference of Parties requested that priority be given to projects which enhance the capacity of least developed or low income States Parties. Applications from least developed States Parties or low income countries, as defined by the United Nations Economic and Social Council's Committee for Development Policy, are strongly encouraged, particularly given that this was one of the principal objectives behind the establishment of the Fund.

Examples of possible projects

It is difficult for UNESCO to provide any indications on which projects might be suitable and/or likely to receive approval. Ultimately these decisions will be made by an Approval Committee consisting of representatives of States Parties. Moreover, there is a risk that presenting a list of examples will only serve to stifle creativity and dissuade States Parties from developing novel approaches. The value of projects will depend on the particular needs of an individual State Party. With this in mind, the Convention Secretariat has developed a series of Good Practice leaflets to inspire States Parties and support cross-border information sharing. Please see chapter V. (How do States Parties apply for funding?) for more details.

In general, harmonization remains a key objective of the Convention. There may be a number of central themes or activities which would help to advance the fight against doping in sport. Several ideas are presented below for the consideration of States Parties.

Education

There are numerous possibilities in the field of education. At the same time there are a number of quality materials that have already been developed which could be easily adapted. It might be a good idea to start by translating, co-branding, printing and distributing existing resources (including UNESCO anti-doping materials or resources within the WADA Content Sharing Programme). Once a range of materials are made available in the local language other areas of need may have been identified.

Several projects that have received funding from UNESCO have targeted athletes and athlete support personnel. Workshops have been held to educate athletes and athlete support personnel about their rights and obligations, to raise awareness about prohibited substances and methods, doping control procedures and relevant aspects of the Code. Education on the potential risks posed by the use of nutritional supplements is also important. Broader education campaigns to sensitize the general public about the ethical or health consequences of doping are another option. Then there is a need to focus attention on young people, especially through values-based education programmes (also highlighted in WADA's Anti-Doping Code – article 18). They, after all, represent the future of sport. It might be advisable to start with junior athletes and school sport competitions before moving on to the wider sporting community. UNESCO has already prepared educational materials targeted at these audiences which can be provided free of charge in the six official languages of the Organization.

Policy advice

A number of States Parties would benefit from high quality advice from a specialist, consultant, or legal professional about the most appropriate policy approaches to take to comply with the various provisions of the Convention. The policy options might vary from one State Party to another depending on the existing legislative or regulatory framework and the level of direct government involvement in the fight against doping in sport. While UNESCO can provide technical advice and assistance, States Parties should also obtain their own counsel. Advice could usefully be sought on the drafting or preparation of legislation, regulations, policies, or administrative practices to restrict the availability of prohibited substances and methods to combat their use in sport. Advice could also be sought on measures against trafficking or on how to control production, movement, importation, distribution and sale of prohibited substances; how best to deal with athlete support personnel who facilitate doping; or the best means to encourage best practices in the marketing or distribution of nutritional supplements.

Mentoring and capacity-building

The Fund provides an opportunity for greater cooperation and information-sharing between States Parties. It could be used to increase exchanges between States Parties with well-developed expertise in anti-doping and other States Parties, for example, through seminars, conferences, and training courses, or the provision of technical assistance. The Fund could also be used for institution-building, leading to the creation of National Anti-Doping Organizations.

IV. HOW TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE FUND

The Fund for the Elimination of Doping in Sport is made up of voluntary contributions from UNESCO Member States, organizations and programmes of the United Nations system, other international organizations, private or public bodies and individuals, as well as revenue from fundraising activities.

In order to contribute to the Fund, interested parties should contact the Convention Secretariat for details or consult the Fund's dedicated donor webpage³.

³ Please see: <http://www.unesco.org/new/en/social-and-human-sciences/themes/anti-doping/fund-for-the-elimination-of-doping-in-sport/donors/>

V. HOW DO STATES PARTIES APPLY FOR FUNDING?

The Conference of Parties determined that requests for assistance under the Fund should be made through the National Commission for UNESCO or a designated government channel, such as the ministry with responsibility for sport. When undertaking this function, these organizations are referred to in this Handbook as the Applicant.

The National Commissions have been selected so that there is a single point of contact within each State Party. Moreover, these organizations have considerable experience working alongside UNESCO in the delivery of programmes and are familiar with its systems and requirements. There is no expectation that each National Commission for UNESCO will have a great deal of experience in anti-doping matters or in the design of projects for assistance under the Fund. They will predominantly have a coordination function, ensuring that the project is completed in accordance with the original application. They will also have the obligation to submit an itemized certified financial statement and a detailed evaluation report at the close of the project.

One of the objectives of the Convention is to ensure that governments are actively engaged in the fight against doping in sport. On this basis, government authorities are encouraged to initiate projects and to submit their applications directly to UNESCO. These government authorities will have the same oversight and reporting responsibilities as outlined above. They will be responsible for the completion of the project as well as the submission of an itemized certified financial statement and a detailed evaluation report at the close of the project.

Selecting the appropriate application form

There are two application forms provided in the Model Documents section of this Handbook. The first application form (AD:001) is for national projects only. The second application form (AD:002A) has been specifically designed for sub-regional, inter-regional or regional projects. Submission of this form should also be accompanied by at least three letters of support from other governments involved in the project (form AD:002B). It is expected that there will be comprehensive consultation during the development of any sub-regional, inter-regional or regional projects, thus the letters of support should be from participating governments in addition to the country making the application. This consultation is also designed to avoid duplication or overlapping projects.⁴

Information to be included in the application

The application forms seek to obtain information about the proposed project. A project description is required as well as a general explanation of the objectives to be achieved and the groups to be targeted by the project. Information on the organizations consulted in the development of the project is also requested. In this regard, it will be important to involve those with expertise in the field of sport and anti-doping in particular. The Applicant will be asked to provide a detailed work plan including all critical dates and the duration of the project. Finally, an itemized budget is required, setting out in United States dollars the expected costs of each specific element.

⁴ Only one sub-regional, inter-regional or regional project, encompassing the same or similar States Parties, will be funded at a time. If more than one sub-regional, inter-regional or regional project is submitted to the Convention Secretariat, encompassing the same or similar States Parties, the Approval Committee will consider the projects by the order in which they were received.

Application inspiration

In order to support States Parties in the early stages of the application, the Convention Secretariat has produced an information sheet describing each section of the application form and including examples of content to be provided by the applicant. The information sheet is available in all six languages of the Organization, both in electronic and hard copy versions. The information sheet should be used as a complement to the Handbook.

The Convention Secretariat has also developed an infographic which promotes a values-based approach to anti-doping education and a series of Good Practice leaflets to inspire applications and facilitate information-sharing. The infographic and the first and second editions of the Good Practice leaflet are available in all six languages of the Organization, in electronic and hard copy versions.

Authentication of the application

At the end of the application form, an authorized signature is required. Each project request must be dated, stamped and signed by the responsible authority of the National Commission or government authority.

Deadline for applications

There are two application rounds per year. States Parties are informed of the application deadline through communications shared with UNESCO Permanent Delegations and National Commissions.

VI. ARE THERE ANY CONDITIONS OR RESTRICTIONS?

Financial or in-kind contributions

The Conference of Parties determined that States Parties have to make some form of contribution to the projects to which they are seeking funding. In other words, the Fund will not cover the entire costs of a project. States Parties must provide a reasonable financial or non-financial contribution to the project. Acceptable forms of non-financial contributions may include the allocation of staff resources and/or the use or provision of equipment and office space to assist with the delivery of the project.

Applicants will be asked to provide details of State Party monetary or in-kind contributions to the project when they submit their application forms. Failure to provide this information may result in delays or the application form being returned to the Applicant.

Publicity

The Applicant must also publicize the fact that the project was financed by the UNESCO Fund for the Elimination of Doping in Sport. Reference should be made to the financial support provided by UNESCO in all public declarations or statements concerning the project by the Applicant and in all press communications, reports, publications or printed documents. A specific UNESCO logo has been developed for this purpose. Its use is subject to prior written approval by the Convention Secretariat.

Maximum amounts of funding available

Applications for national projects submitted by individual States Parties should not exceed US$20,000. The maximum amount of assistance available for each sub-regional, inter-regional, or regional project is US$50,000.

At its Third Session (14-15 November 2011), the Conference of Parties decided that the disbursement of the amounts approved for the States Parties having submitted applications to the Fund can only be made for States Parties that have submitted national reports as required under Article 31 of the Convention (see Annex III: Resolution 3CP/6.3). These should be submitted through the Anti-Doping Logic system immediately prior to each Session of the Conference of Parties. The Convention Secretariat can help States Parties access the Anti-Doping Logic system, including providing passwords to the relevant national authorities.

At its Third Session (14-15 November 2011), the Conference of Parties also decided that the amounts allocated to hospitality as direct costs in each project shall not exceed 10% of the total financial contribution provided by UNESCO.

At its Fifth Session (29-30 October 2015), the Conference of Parties decided that, when hospitality is not covered, daily allowances should not exceed US$100/day in itemized budgets submitted by States Parties.

Overall responsibility for the project

The Applicant must agree to take full responsibility for the implementation of the project. They must ensure that the project is undertaken in accordance with the original application. The Applicant is also responsible for furnishing an itemized certified financial statement and a detailed evaluation at the conclusion of the project. In some cases the project may be undertaken by another organization, other than the Applicant. However, the Applicant will still have to assume the financial and administrative responsibility for the project.

One project at a time

States Parties may only undertake one project at a time. No new financial assistance for a project will be provided until such time as the relevant State Party's last funded project has been fully completed. Completion of the project entails sending the Convention Secretariat an itemized certified financial statement and a detailed evaluation report. The Applicant will be advised in writing by the Convention Secretariat when these steps have been undertaken successfully and the project is deemed to be completed.

Maximum number of requests

A maximum of three requests can be submitted by each State Party in the 2016/17 biennium. These three projects might consist of national, and/or sub-regional, inter-regional or regional activities, or a combination thereof.

Prioritization of projects

While it is possible for States Parties to submit several projects to the Convention Secretariat at the same time, only one project will be funded at a time. Therefore, States Parties are asked to number their projects in order of priority. On the application form, the Applicant will be asked to specify the priority given to the project. It is possible to change this order at a later date, when another project is submitted or by way of an official letter from the Applicant to the Convention Secretariat.

VII. APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS: HOW WILL UNESCO MANAGE THE FUND?

Receipt and assessment of applications

The Convention Secretariat will acknowledge receipt of all requests submitted to UNESCO. The Applicant will be notified, where possible, within ten working days following the receipt of the draft application form. If the application form is incomplete, there are omissions or unclear details, or the request is not deemed to conform to the guidelines or the decisions of the Conference of Parties governing the Fund, it may be returned to the Applicant at this stage for revision.

The Applicant will be sent a written assessment of the application, where possible, within 20 working days following the acknowledgment of the receipt of the draft application. This assessment will seek to identify areas where the application could be refined to better meet the objectives of the Fund, to improve the effectiveness of the project or to provide greater alignment with activities currently underway in the field of anti-doping in sport. At this stage, the Applicant may be asked to resubmit the application taking into account the advice provided by the Convention Secretariat.

Once the application has been formally assessed by the Convention Secretariat, and amended by the Applicant as needed, it will be assigned with a unique identification number and submitted for approval.

Approval of applications

An Approval Committee has been established to determine all applications to the Fund. This Committee is comprised of six representatives of States Parties elected by the Conference of Parties on the basis of equitable geographical representation. The members of the Approval Committee should have recognized experience and knowledge in the field of anti-doping.

The Approval Committee is supported by the Social and Human Sciences Sector of UNESCO, and assisted, in an advisory capacity without the right to vote, by one representative of WADA, one representative of the Education Sector of UNESCO and one representative of the External Relations and Public Information Sector of UNESCO.

Meetings of the Approval Committee

The Approval Committee will meet in session periodically to determine applications to the Fund. These meetings will take place at UNESCO Headquarters. The Approval Committee will also meet out-of-session to determine applications, subject to demand.

All decisions of the Approval Committee will be made on the basis of a simple majority.

Applicants will be informed in writing by the Convention Secretariat, where possible, within ten working days of the decision taken by the Approval Committee.

Role of the Convention Secretariat

The Convention Secretariat will not be involved in the approval process in any capacity.

It will be responsible for management of all applications and administration in support of the Approval Committee. However, the Convention Secretariat may provide advice or recommendations to the Approval Committee.

The Convention Secretariat will also be responsible for the implementation of all decisions taken by the Approval Committee. In this regard, the Convention Secretariat will oversee the allocation of financial contributions, verify that the funds have been used for the implementation of the project, review the project evaluation reports and ensure the receipt of an itemized statement accounting for the activities executed.

Reporting

The Approval Committee will prepare a report on the operation of the Fund and options in relation to the priorities for allocation, drawing upon the results of the monitoring system for the Convention and other relevant information, for consideration by the Conference of Parties, at its sixth ordinary session in the final quarter of 2017.

The Convention Secretariat will also prepare a biennial report on applications for assistance received, projects supported and the results achieved. An annual certified financial statement will be submitted to the Conference of Parties and/or its bureau. These documents will be made available on the UNESCO anti-doping website.

VIII. WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A PROJECT IS APPROVED?

All Applicants will receive written notification from the Convention Secretariat if their project is approved. Where possible, this notification will be provided within ten working days following the decision of the Approval Committee.

Contract

Following the decision of the Approval Committee, a contract (currently an Intergovernmental Body Allocation Contract) will be established between UNESCO and the Applicant. Accordingly, the Applicant will be requested to provide the Convention Secretariat with detailed contact and banking information.

When several distinct activity phases exist within the project, advance payment may be made for each phase at its inception. Requests must therefore set out detailed work plans, including the costs of every element that make up the overall project. Depending on the scope or duration of the project, interim reports may need to be submitted by the Applicant to the Convention Secretariat outlining progress made with each phase (form AD:005).

The last payment of any contract will only be processed after receipt of the financial statement and supporting documents as well as the evaluation report as stipulated in Section VIII of this Handbook.

Payment

Payment will be made by bank transfer to the National Commission or government authority which has submitted the application.

UNESCO financial regulations do not allow for any financial transfers to be made in the name of any individual or natural person.

Currency of payment

The preferred currency for payments is United States dollars. Only in exceptional circumstances, will payment be made in another currency.

IX. WHAT ARE THE STEPS FOLLOWING THE END OF A PROJECT?

At the conclusion of every project the Applicant is required to inform the Convention Secretariat and undertake two important steps:

- (1) An evaluation report must be provided to the Convention Secretariat. This report will present the results of the activities financed and the outcomes achieved. Please also submit all relevant documentation (project documents, meeting reports, publications, CD Roms, news clippings, photographs, videos, etc.) and the evaluation report to the Convention Secretariat.

A form for the submission of the evaluation report (AD:003) is provided in the Model Documents section of this Handbook.

- (2) An itemized certified financial statement must be provided to the Convention Secretariat at the end of the project. Along with this financial statement all original supporting documentation, in the form of invoices and receipts, must be included, proving that the funds were used for the implementation of the project. At the same time, any unused balance must be returned to UNESCO. Expenditure for which supporting documentation is not provided, as described in this Handbook, will have to be refunded by the Applicant upon demand by UNESCO in the currency in which it was paid.

A form for the submission of the financial statement (AD:004) is provided in the Model Documents section of this Handbook.

The Convention Secretariat will notify Applicants, where possible, within ten working days following the receipt and verification of all of the requisite documentation. At this point the project will be deemed to be completed.

Failure to submit the financial statement and/or evaluation report

No new financial contributions will be made, until the Applicant has completed the initial project. Only once the Convention Secretariat has received an itemized certified financial statement with supporting documentation and a detailed evaluation report, and the Convention Secretariat has provided written confirmation that a project has been completed, will additional projects be considered for approval.
