Environmental and Nature Conservation in IRAN

Projects that are practical, action based, on the ground and result orientated

Up to maximum $ 20,000

Deadline: 23 July 2016

Established in 2015, The FINC Foundation (Germany) has set small grants up to maximum $20,000 for 2016–2017 to support one to two nature conservation projects from Iran. The FINC foundation is an independent, non-profit organization with an operational focus to promote the implementation of environmental and nature conservation actions on a global scale and support dedicated individuals and small initiatives, who play a prominent role in practical nature conservation.

The maximum funding amount can be up to $20,000, yet the usual average funding of FINC is in the range between $5000 and $8000.

How to apply?

FINC has made it easier than ever to apply. Only send these two files to FINC:

- 1) A short concept note (max. 2 pages, including budget and time plan). Concepts can be in Farsi.
- 2) A brief description of your organization/institution.

Email these two files to info@finc-foundation.org. Deadline to send applications is 23 July 2016.

Proposals should be practical, action based, on the ground and output orientated and thus match the mission statement of FINC. Projects working on the scale of landscape conservation or restoration are preferred but not stand-alone criteria. Having received a positive evaluation by FINC, the applicants will be asked to submit a full proposal, which should be submitted by the end of August.
