The records were listed in the order they were found; no list or filing plan established by the Office in Washington was available.

When being dissolved, the Office undertook some efforts to leave its publications collection intact, so that there would remain an integral source of information about UNESCO in Washington.

While unsuccessful in this effort, they had been able to place some parts with institutions in Washington:

- The General Conference, Executive Board and other UNESCO meeting documents were turned over to the Library of Congress Serial and Government Publications Division;
- Key reference works were given to the library of the United Nations Information Center;
- Materials on ecology and the Man and the Biosphere programme were sent to the United Nations Environmental Programme Office (UNEP);
- Communication materials were transferred to the Academy for Educational Development;
- Information on cultural preservation was donated to the US Committee of the International Council of Monuments and Sites (US/ICOMOS).

All institutions agreed to grant access to these materials.
