Subject: Call for nominations – UNESCO/Juan Bosch Prize for the Promotion of Social Science Research in Latin America and the Caribbean 2017

Sir/Madam,

I am pleased to invite your Government to submit nominations for the UNESCO/Juan Bosch Prize for the Promotion of Social Science Research in Latin America and the Caribbean, which will be awarded for the third time in 2017.

The purpose of the Prize is to reward, every two years, the best social science thesis, written by young researchers in the Latin American and Caribbean region, which has made a significant contribution to the promotion of research in the social sciences that endeavours to improve social development.

The Prize was instituted by the Executive Board of UNESCO in 2009 at the initiative of the Government of the Dominican Republic. In creating this Prize, Executive Board recognized the remarkable contribution of Professor Juan Bosch to the study of social and political processes in the Dominican Republic and the Caribbean region. An author, politician, social analyst and fervent advocate of democratic values and a culture of peace in Latin America and the Caribbean, he made a particular impact in the Dominican Republic and the entire region.

It was awarded for the first time in 2012 to Ms Karen Nathalia Cerón Steevens (Colombia), in recognition of the quality of her research on youth violence in Central America. In the second edition of the Prize, in 2015, the laureate was Mr Manuel Olivera Andrade (Bolivia), in acknowledgement of the academic excellence of his research on the risk factors regarding the Bolivian government plan, launched in 2008, for lithium harvesting in the Salar de Uyuni.

In accordance with its Statutes, the Prize consists of a diploma and of a monetary award of ten thousand US dollars for the successful candidate. Both the Statutes of the Prize (Annex I) and the nomination form (Annex II) are enclosed.

An information flyer on the Juan Bosch Prize may be downloaded at the following link: <http://unesdoc.unesco.org/images/0022/002238/223895E.pdf>

Nominations may be made, in English or Spanish, by the governments of UNESCO's Member States, in consultation with their National Commissions.

Nominations may also be made also by non-governmental organizations maintaining formal consultative relations with UNESCO. Nomination files should be submitted by 30 May 2017. Member States may not submit more than three candidates for any one edition of the Prize. No individual submissions will be allowed.

I should be grateful if your submissions could be made using the attached nomination form, which should be duly completed in Spanish or English and returned, together with supporting documentation on the work carried out by the candidate, to Mr Pedro Monreal González, Executive Secretary of the UNESCO/Juan Bosch Prize (UNESCO Social and Human Sciences Sector, 7, Place de Fontenoy, 75352 Paris cedex 07, France, tel.: + 33 1 45 68 38 62; e-mail: pm. monreal-gonzalez@unesco.org), who remains at your disposal for any further information you may require.

Accept, Sir/Madam, the assurances of my highest consideration.
