

Global Citizenship Education: giving people the skills to understand the world we live in

An NGO perspective

TIME

Subscribe

HEALTH

More People Have Cell Phones Than Toilets, U.N. Study Shows

Out of the world's estimated 7 billion people, 6 billion have access to mobile phones, while 2.6 billion have access to working toilets, a new study shows.

By Yue Wang | March 25, 2013 | 2:11 PM

The Washington Post

Ad

PostEverything

Charlie Hebdo proves just how broken human rights law is starting at 99¢

The Washington Post

Subscribe

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN™

Subscribe

News & Features

Topics

Blogs

Videos & Podcasts

Education

Citizen Science

Search ScientificAmerican.com

11

Email

Print

Will Falling Oil Prices Kill Wind and Solar Power?

Former U.S. Energy Secretary Steven Chu weighs in on the impact of low oil prices on renewable energy.

January 22, 2015 | By Katia Moskvitch

Insight. In sight.

BLOOMBERG VISUAL DATA GET THE LATEST >>

Bloomberg

BY DANIEL BASES NEW YORK | Mon Jan 26, 2015 4:16pm EST

Euro rebounds off lows following Greek vote

Modi Shifts on Climate Change With India Renewables Goal

BUSINESS INSIDER UK

Tech

Finance

Politics

Strategy

More: AFP Oil Any-

FINANCE

Africa's Second Biggest Oil Producer Has Resorted To Painful Austerity Measures

AFP

ESTELLE MAUSSON, AFP JAN. 25, 2015, 9:49 PM 278

CONCORD development awareness raising & education

DEEEP

Formal
QUALITY
EDUCATION

Global Citizenship
Education
Justice
Democratic Participation
Curiosity
Diversity
Empathy Solidarity (local,
national, global)

Non-Formal
FROM YOUTH TO PRIVATE COMPANIES

Informal LOCAL COMMUNITIES

Human Rights
Education
Development
Education
Global
Education
Sustainable Development
Global
Learning
Global orientation
Pursuit of personal /societal transformation
Methodology of Transformation of Overlapping Content

We need to act together!

- Start thinking how universality will work in practice;
- New allies; Multistakeholder (MSH); Networks
- Teaching -> Learning (Monitoring).

Thank you !

Join the online discussion
<http://deEEP.org/community/>

Rilli Lappalainen

rilli.lappalainen@kehys.fi

