The report, to be launched in June 2016 draws on a series of regional reviews commissioned to internationally recognized experts in the field.

With a focus on Education 2030 Framework for Action, the report uses an international comparative perspective to address, among others, the following questions:

- Why and how have the M&E of education systems emerged and evolved?
- What are the main current M&E models and their challenges?
- What makes a M&E system relevant?
- How can the efficiency and effectiveness of M&E systems be strengthened?
- How can stakeholders' capacity to participate in the M&E of education be reinforced?
