CULTURAL EXPRESSIONS AND PLURALISM:

ASPECTS OF CONTEMPORARY
CREATIVITY IN CYPRUS

The UNESCO Convention for the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions (2005) is a legally binding international Agreement safeguarding that creators, cultural professionals, artists and citizens have the right to create, produce, distribute and enjoy a broad spectrum of cultural goods, services and activities. It proposes an international framework for the governance and management of culture which ensures public access to various cultural expressions and integrates culture in the national sustainable development policies, thus maximising the overall contribution of creative industries to economic and social development.
