

BE A BAD DIVER!

©David Jones

Spring is here! Wondering how to fill the weekend?

Join MAST for one of our next PADI Distinctive Specialty courses to be a Basic Archaeology Diver, yes BAD!

The course is a no frills, no fuss introduction to the basics of archaeology underwater with simple recording techniques using little more than a camera and tape measures. The introduction to the basics will also include a lecture on the laws governing divers and underwater archaeology in the UK.

After completion you will have the opportunity of a rare guided tour from the licensee of the 1685 Coronation protected wrecksite off Plymouth.

As PADI Underwater Archaeology specialists you can become the eyes and ears of our underwater heritage.

The course includes a student handbook, provision of underwater surveying tools for the duration of the course, three open water dives, PADI PIC registration and card and a reduced price voucher to dive the Coronation wreck. All profits from the course are donated to MAST to contribute to projects aimed at understanding and conserving our British marine heritage.
