General considerations

In order to ensure effective implementation of the Convention, the Parties are encouraged, by all appropriate means, to take the necessary measures to increase the visibility and promotion of the Convention at the national, regional and international levels, taking into account more specifically the objectives and principles of the Convention (articles 1 and 2).
2. To that end, the mobilization and cooperation of all stakeholders, namely the Parties, civil society, including artists and other cultural professionals and practitioners, as well as the public and private sectors, are essential.
3. Actions taken concerning the visibility and promotion of the Convention are closely linked to those related to fundraising in support of the International Fund for Cultural Diversity (IFCD, hereinafter referred to as “the Fund”), which has only voluntary contributions, and to those made in the context of the strategy for encouraging ratifications.

Measures by Parties to ensure the visibility and promotion of the Convention

4.7 carrying out educational activities through the development of targeted programmes, in particular for young people, to facilitate understanding of the Convention;

4.8 carrying out awareness-raising activities with young professionals in the cultural sector regarding issues addressed by the Convention.

At the regional and international levels

5. The measures adopted by the Parties at the national level to ensure the visibility and promotion of the Convention may be reinforced by initiatives at bilateral, regional and international levels.

Parties, with the support of the Secretariat and Field Offices, are particularly encouraged to:

5.1 develop and share the communication tools relevant to ensuring the visibility and promotion of the Convention and organize events between countries of the same region (e.g. Festival on Cultural Diversity held by UNESCO in the week of 21 May);

5.2 publicize projects and activities supported by the Fund;

5.3 raise awareness of intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations having interests and activities in the fields covered by the Convention and, if appropriate, undertake joint activities.

Contribution of civil society

6. In the light of Article 11 of the Convention concerning the participation of civil society and in conformity with its operational guidelines, civil society is encouraged to actively contribute to ensuring the visibility and the promotion of the Convention by conducting awareness-raising, cooperation and collaborative activities with stakeholders.

7. To that end, civil society's efforts may include, but not be limited to:

7.1 organizing seminars, workshops and forums at every level, in particular with cultural professional organizations representing artists and others involved in the creation, production and dissemination/distribution of cultural expressions, and participating in national, regional and international conferences on the Convention;

7.2 developing and publishing information tools to facilitate understanding of the Convention;

7.3 disseminating information to stakeholders (through national media, websites and newsletters);

7.4 building partnerships with the ministries concerned, the National Commissions, universities and research institutes to organise research and training seminars on the Convention.

Role of the Secretariat of UNESCO

8. In order to help the Committee to improve the visibility and foster the promotion of the Convention, the Secretariat of UNESCO shall, without being limited to:

8.1 collect, share and distribute information on the protection and promotion of the diversity of cultural expressions and facilitate the exchange of information between Parties, non-governmental organisations, cultural professionals and civil society;

8.2 develop tools to disseminate the key messages of the Convention to different audiences and to distribute information regarding its implementation. These tools shall be developed in such a way as to facilitate their subsequent translation in several languages;

8.3 facilitate the organisation of workshops, seminars or conferences in order to raise awareness about the Convention;

8.4 underscore the importance of the Convention in international celebrations, such as the World Day for Cultural Diversity for Dialogue and Development;

8.5 publicize projects and activities carried out in the framework of the Fund.
