

UNESCO-Japan Prize on Education for Sustainable Development:

Frequently Asked Questions

February 2021

Contents

- 1) Who can apply/nominate for the Prize?2
 - 1.1 - Who can be nominated?2
 - 1.2 - I meet the eligibility criteria, can I apply directly for the Prize?2
 - 1.3 - My NGO has worked with UNESCO before, can I submit a nomination?2
 - 1.4 - What is an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO? How can my NGO become one?2
 - 1.5 - We are an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, can we participate in the Prize?2
 - 1.6 - Can the same project/programme be nominated by several Member States/NGOs?3
 - 1.7 - Can the same organization be nominated several times for different projects/programmes?3
- 2) How do I complete and submit the nomination form?3
 - 2.1 - When can I complete/submit the nomination form?3
 - 2.2 - I cannot access the online nomination platform; how can I access it?3
 - 2.3 - As a UNESCO Member State government, how can I submit a nomination?3
 - 2.4 - As an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, how can I submit a nomination?3
 - 2.5 - Can I send my nomination/supporting documents by e-mail or post?4
 - 2.6 - Can I complete the nomination form in Spanish, Arabic or another official UN language?4
 - 2.7 - What makes a good nomination?4
- 3) What happens after the submission of a nomination?4
 - 3.1 - Will I receive a confirmation when my nomination has been submitted?4
 - 3.2 - Who selects the prizewinners?4
 - 3.3 - When will the winners be known?4
 - 3.4 - What happens if I win the Prize?5
 - 3.5 - Do candidates that have not won the Prize get any recognition or feedback?5
 - 3.6 - Can I re-apply next edition?5

1) Who can apply/nominate for the Prize?

1.1 - Who can be nominated?

Eligible for the Prize are institutions and organizations with a specific ESD project/programme that must:

- be ongoing and have been running for at least 4 years
- show presence of evidence of results and a high impact relative to the invested resources
- be replicable and scalable
- contribute to one or more of the 5 priority action areas of the ESD for 2030 framework (i.e. advancing policy, transforming learning and training environments, developing capacities of educators and trainers, mobilizing youth, accelerating sustainable solutions at local level, please refer to the page 25-34 of ESD for 2030 roadmap for more details).

You can find the detailed selection criteria here.

1.2 - I meet the eligibility criteria, can I apply directly for the Prize?

Direct applications to UNESCO are not accepted. All candidates have to be nominated by:

- ⇒ The government of a UNESCO Member State, via their Permanent Delegation to UNESCO. We advise you to contact first your country's National Commission for UNESCO (see list here).

OR

- ⇒ An NGO or Foundation in official partnership with UNESCO (see question 1.3). You may wish to contact an NGO working in your field (see list here).

Each Member State/Organization can nominate up to 3 candidates for each edition of the Prize.

Member States/Organizations can decide on their own national/internal selection process, deadlines and criteria to decide whom to nominate for the Prize. UNESCO cannot and does not influence these decisions or processes in any way.

1.3 - My NGO has worked with UNESCO before, can I submit a nomination?

Please note that only "NGOs in official partnership with UNESCO" can submit nominations for the Prize (see question 1.4). The nominations submitted must be for other organizations. Self-nominations are not accepted.

However, any NGO that meets the eligibility criteria can be nominated for the Prize (see question 1.1).

1.4 - What is an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO? How can my NGO become one?

The terms "NGOs in official partnership with UNESCO" and "Foundation maintaining official relations with UNESCO" refer to a particular partnership concluded with UNESCO, following long-year collaboration and a formal application process. You can find the list of organizations currently maintaining official relations with UNESCO here.

- If you want to apply to become an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, you will need to contact the External Relations Sector of UNESCO. This is a lengthy process and requires that common projects/programmes with UNESCO already exist. Further information can be found here.
- An NGO does not need to be an official partner to be nominated for the Prize (see question 1.2).

1.5 - We are an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, can we participate in the Prize?

As an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, you can nominate up to three candidates for each edition of the Prize (see question 2.4).

- If your Organization has several branches or international offices, the nomination/registration of an account must be submitted by headquarters.

- Self-nominations are not accepted; this means an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO cannot nominate itself for the Prize. Should you wish your NGO to be nominated for the Prize, we advise you to contact the government of a UNESCO Member State or a partner Organization maintaining official relations with UNESCO (see question 1.2).

1.6 - Can the same project/programme be nominated by several Member States/NGOs?

Joint nominations (submitted jointly by several Member States or NGOs) are not possible. Different Member States or NGOs can decide to nominate the same project in distinct nominations, but this will not raise applicants' chances compared to their nomination by a single Member State/NGO.

1.7 - Can the same organization be nominated several times for different projects/programmes?

Each nomination must focus on one specific ESD project/programme (see question 1.1). However, it is possible to nominate the same candidate for different projects/programmes in distinct nominations in the same or in the following edition(s).

2) How do I complete and submit the nomination form?

2.1 - When can I complete/submit the nomination form?

The call for nominations and other dates are announced on the Prize home page. Outside the application period, no nominations can be accepted.

2.2 – I cannot access the online nomination platform; how can I access it?

Only governments of UNESCO Member States (UNESCO National Commissions and Permanent Delegations) and NGOs in official partnership with UNESCO can access the online nomination platform.

- Candidates wishing to be nominated for the Prize are invited to contact the National Commission for UNESCO of their country or an Organization maintaining official relations with UNESCO (see question 1.1). UNESCO Member State governments can request the access to the online nomination platform for a candidate they have decided to nominate (see question 2.3).
- The user name for Permanent Delegations and National Commissions is their UNESCO Account – please see the user guide in the “Documents” section here for further information.
- NGOs in official partnerships need to register their information here (see question 2.4).

The fields/questions of the online nomination form can be reviewed in each edition's “Explanatory note” which is available here in the “Documents” section.

2.3 – As a UNESCO Member State government, how can I submit a nomination?

Nominations by Member States must be submitted by their Permanent Delegation to UNESCO through the online nomination platform. It is also possible for the country's National Commission for UNESCO to access and complete the online nomination form, before the Delegation's submission. Member States can also request the access to the online nomination platform for each of their nominees (up to 3). The online nomination platform can only be accessed by UNESCO accounts or Microsoft accounts. Please note that nominees' email address must be associated with a Microsoft account.

A detailed user guide for the online platform is available here in the “Documents” section.

2.4 – As an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO, how can I submit a nomination?

To nominate up to 3 candidates, NGOs in official partnership with UNESCO need to request the access to the online nomination platform here. The online nomination platform can only be accessed by UNESCO accounts or Microsoft accounts. Please note that your email address must be associated with a Microsoft account.

2.5 – Can I send my nomination/supporting documents by e-mail or post?

All nominations and supporting documents should be submitted via the online nomination platform.

2.6 - Can I complete the nomination form in Spanish, Arabic or another official UN language?

Information regarding the UNESCO-Japan Prize on ESD and its nomination process is currently available on our website in English and French.

However, English and French are the only two working languages of UNESCO and therefore, nominations and supporting documents must be submitted exclusively in either of these languages.

If you require assistance, contact the National Commission for UNESCO of your country. You can find the list of National Commissions here.

2.7 - What makes a good nomination?

The jury is looking particularly for innovative projects/programmes that address equally the economic, environmental and social dimension of sustainability and already show proof that the project/programme has led to individual and societal change (see question 1.1). You can learn about the projects/programmes of previous laureates and read the jury's appraisals on the Prize website.

Here is some general advice on completing the nomination form:

- Carefully read and follow the instructions for each field of the form
- Write in a clear and concise way (have at least one other person proofread the nomination)
- Strictly respect the word limit
- Pay particular attention to the project/programme abstract, which should summarize the entire nomination
- Candidates: Contact potential nominators as early as possible, to give them to validate and submit the nomination

3) What happens after the submission of a nomination?

3.1 - Will I receive a confirmation when my nomination has been submitted?

As nominators, UNESCO Member States (National Commissions and Permanent Delegations) and NGOs in official partnership with UNESCO will receive an automatic confirmation e-mail for each nomination successfully submitted by them online.

Nominated candidates will not be notified by UNESCO but will need to contact their nominating entity to enquire about the status of their nomination.

3.2 - Who selects the prizewinners?

All eligible nominations are examined by an international jury composed of 5 independent experts. Every edition, they recommend three winners to the Director-General of UNESCO who takes the final decision. Neither UNESCO nor the government of Japan as the donor gets involved in the assessment of nominations.

3.3 - When will the winners be known?

The three winners in each edition are announced in due course through a press release and on the Prize website. Only successful candidates and their Member States will be notified individually.

3.4 - What happens if I win the Prize?

Successful candidates will be notified by UNESCO shortly before the official announcement.

UNESCO will invite two representatives of each laureate to the award ceremony, which usually takes place in Paris in October or November (all dates are announced on the Prize home page).

Each laureate will receive an award, a diploma and the sum of US$50,000. The funds will be transferred to their bank account in the week of the award ceremony.

All winners will be invited to join the ESD-Net 2030 for exchange and collaboration with ESD stakeholders from all over the world.

3.5 - Do candidates that have not won the Prize get any recognition or feedback?

Unfortunately, due to the high number of nominations, it is not possible to provide individual or general feedback to candidates, and the Prize Statutes do not call for publishing a short list.

However, UNESCO occasionally decides to highlight certain projects/programmes that have caught the jury's attention during the selection process on the UNESCO website.

3.6 - Can I re-apply next edition?

Yes. If you meet the eligibility criteria and if the government of a UNESCO Member State or an NGO in official partnership would like to nominate your project/programme, then it is possible to resubmit an application for the same or a different project/programme in a future edition of the Prize.