

We need you write now.

Apply to join the circle of young writers, and artists, of NET-MED Youth.

Send us your stories, reflections, essays, editorials, poetry, prose, personal journeys, a snippet of memoir, or - really - any type of non-written artwork (photography, illustration, graphic story, etc.) you would like to see published on our website.

We accept submissions in Arabic, English and French.

Written pieces should be less than 1,500 words and can be on any topic related to youth: participation in decision-making, development, engagement, civil society, empowerment, sustainable development, employment, education, skills, media, communication, advocacy, women, people with disabilities, public policies, violent extremism, inclusion, heritage, identity, current events... Well, you got the point! – The same topics apply to other types of artwork.

Click here to see examples of pieces we have already published.

Who can participate?

- All young women and men (under 30) from countries in the Mediterranean region.

We look forward to seeing your work!

Your submissions will be featured in our website, newsletter, social media, UNESCO website, and a couple other platforms.

CREATE

SUBMIT

GET PUBLISHED

Submissions are open now and throughout 2017
Send your contributions or any enquiries to a.lahbabi@unesco.org and state "Writer call" in the subject line.

The NET-MED youth project is funded by the European Union.