

At the end of the third quarter, UNESCO Regional Bureau for Education in Asia and the Pacific launched the Together for Peace (T4P) initiative in a form of a webinar, taking into context the continuing COVID-19 situation. National Commissions from across the region as well as national education leaders and partners participated in the meeting and discussed how UNESCO could further work towards the region's positive peace— not just the absence of violence, but the presence of justice and equality in our societies. Articles published in traditional media continued to focus on the challenges posed by the pandemic, and innovative solutions, particularly in the fields of education and the culture and creative industries, including an article published both in English and Thai-language platforms as part of PIO's efforts to reach a broader section of the general public.
