BANDUNG: EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

What does it take for Bandung to become a Creative City of Design?

This question has become the title for Bandung's presentation at an international conference on creative cities that was held at the University of Mid-Sweden prior to the Annual Meeting of UNESCO Creative Cities Network (UCCN) in Östersund, Sweden, in 2016, which marked the first appearance of Bandung as a UCCN member. The narration of what "Design" means for Bandung remains; that it refers more to the way of thinking of its citizens to discover local solutions, often by creating prototypes to experience diverse future urban scenarios. "Design" is seen more as a method to conduct social innovation, to enhance economy activities, and to increase citizens involvement in urban development.

"Creativity" in general becomes a strategy to lessen the gap between people and policy, people and government, and among citizens through the annual practice of a city-scale Design Thinking workshop, DesignAction.bdg, that involves the Penta Helix stakeholders of a creative city, ABCG+M (Academia, Business, Community, Government + Media) in the 3C phases of Connect - Collaborate - Commerce/ Celebrate. The facts that Bandung citizens are dominated by young people, almost 70% are aged under 40 years old, and that Bandung is home to more than 100 universities and research centres, support the establishments of creative communities that have determined the urban dynamics of the city.

Hence the formula of Bandung's main potentials: People - Place - Ideas, the three wheels that keep turning and moving all elements of creative economy ecosystem within the city, which generate active and entrepreneurial communities, built environment with business potentials, and social innovation and economic values.

Being a member of the network has brought Bandung and its design potentials to another level and has created real impacts. A whole lot of new opportunities for collaboration open up, making it more accessible for Bandung designers and creative professionals in general to interact and exchange views and experiences with their fellow counterparts from all corners of the world. While doing so, Bandung keeps conducting its notion of a “design city” by also fulfilling its commitments to the network. Throughout its membership years, Bandung has presented DesignAction.bdg as among the best implementations of SDG #11 during UCCN Annual Meeting in Engghienles-Bains, France, in 2017. Bandung has also completed Airborne.bdg project to mark its membership as a UCCN City of Design by creating a new gigantic landmark: a mural painted on rooftops of about 150 houses, where creative interventions have been taking place for several years. Bandung Municipality has also proved its commitment by establishing Bandung Creative Hub, a facility that is fully dedicated to creative industry activities, and by developing Bandung Creative Belts that identify creative potentials in the districts of Bandung City. Another important highlight is the role of Bandung in declaration of the 10 Principles of Indonesian Creative Cities, which was published as a White Book of Creative Cities: A Network that Creates, and in forming Indonesia Creative Cities Network (ICCN), a hub that currently connects community initiatives in more than 200 cities throughout the whole Indonesian Archipelago. This report is expected to provide compelling information about the direction of Bandung City development that involves creativity and culture in its strategy, which has been enhanced and accelerated by collaboration and partnerships that are gained through UCCN.

Most community initiatives in Bandung are implemented based on this formula; involving all Penta Helix stakeholders of a city: ABCGM (Academia, Business Sector, Communities, Government, Media) in the 3C phases of Connect - Collaborate - Commerce/Celebrate.

BANDUNG: GENERAL INFORMATION

Bandung, the capital city of West Java, Indonesia's most populated province, is located at about 700 meter above sea level. Surrounded by mountains that are rich with productive plantations of coffee, tea, and quinine since the Dutch colonial era, with an average temperature of 21°C throughout the year, Bandung has become an attractive city. Its reputation as a place for leisure, culinary, and fashion experience remains up to this day. Bandung City that was designed based on European Garden City style in 1810 to be inhabited by 300,000 people is currently home to approximately 2 million citizens, of which 68% are below 40 years of age (BPS, 2016). The fact that there are more than 120 universities and higher education institutions — of which at least 10 have majors in art, design, architecture — and research centres in Bandung, also approximately 400 vocational training centres, has added to the characteristics of Bandung as a city of youth, who always needs and/or creates places to gather and express themselves, and has therefore organically determined the urban dynamics of Bandung City. Concerning creative economy sector, the following numbers show the actual potentials of Bandung and its surrounding area.

MAIN

INITIATIVES

As home to more than 100 universities, among which are highly reputable for the art, craft, design, and architecture departments, whose amount of students also influences the demography of Bandung, Bandung has always been full of activities initiated by campuses and communities. Joining the network has encouraged organisations and communities in Bandung to create more programs and events, especially the ones that represent how design has positive impacts to the urban and community development.

Local initiatives in the form of programs and events in this report are described according to the three main potentials of Bandung: People, Place and Ideas.

DESIGNACTION.bdg

DesignAction.bdg (DA.bdg) is an annual international workshop on design thinking that involves all Penta Helix stakeholders of a city to find innovative urban solutions.

DA.bdg, which was initiated by Bandung Creative City Forum (BCCF) and has been fully supported by Bandung Municipality, brings up a different theme each year, depending on the current urgent problems in Bandung. DA.bdg was presented at UCCN Annual Meeting in Enghien-les-Bains, France, 2017 as among the best practices of SDG #11 implementation.

PEOPLE

DESIGN THINKING MODULES FOR SCHOOLS

Design Thinking Modules for Elementary, Secondary and Senior High Schools have been developed by Bandung Creative City Forum (BCCF) and Bandung Municipality with the purpose of raising empathy and encouraging creativity and Design Thinking method that might be used to find innovative urban solutions, as an extra-curricular activity for students. However, since Design Thinking method is currently formally adopted into the national curriculum, Bandung Municipality collaborates with Bandung Creative Economy Committee and BCCF in producing the modules and piloting the projects in a number of elementary, secondary, and senior high schools in Bandung.

INDONESIA CREATIVE CITIES NETWORK (ICCN)

Indonesia Creative Cities Network (ICCN) was initiated in Bandung, April 2015, marked by the declaration of 10 Principles of Indonesian Creative City by representatives from about 20 cities that attended Creative Cities Conference held by Bandung Municipality collaborates with Bandung Creative City Forum (BCCF). Since then, ICCN has held regular meetings, conferences, and festivals; where more cities and regencies joined the organisation in each event, strengthening the organisation, which has connected creative communities and initiatives in more than 210 cities and regencies from all over the Indonesian Archipelago.

The current organisation team of ICCN runs a main program called Catha Ekadaksa: 11 Ways towards An Impactful Urban Creative Economy Ecosystem, that encourages active citizens participation in co-creating their own cities. These 11 ways are designed to accommodate any condition of Indonesian cities; whether in a dense urban setting, in remote rural areas, on groups of smaller islands, both mountainous and coastal areas, and so on.

ICCN has also published a White Paper of Indonesian Creative City: An Ecosystem that Creates, which contains best practices of creative community initiatives in different cities, and a simulation of the adaptation of the 10 Principles of Indonesian Creative City into government's Key Performance Index, in order to ensure the inclusion of creativity and culture into the development strategy. Furthermore, ICCN currently develops a Creative City Index dashboard, based on Creative Economy Ecosystem, which aims to show the potentials and growth of a city, particularly its creative industries sectors. This dashboard will become a tool for municipalities to create policies and regulations, according to its creative economy evidences gained from the Index.

It will also serve as a working tool for city leaders, especially in making decisions concerning collaboration programs and implementation of Catha Ekadaksa in order to raise the city's growth index.

ART, DESIGN & ENVIRONMENT: CREATIVITY AS URBAN SOLUTIONS

▲ Prototypes of local food packaging & branding

The roles of Academia as one of the Penta Helix stakeholders of Bandung particularly relate to the abundance of universities offering majors in design, architecture, visual art, craft, and other creative fields. Among the most reputable ones is Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB), home to the oldest faculty of visual art and design in Indonesia that receives approximately 250 students each year. One of the compulsory classes concerns the issues of sustainability, where students are directed to collaborate with local neighbourhoods and communities (youth groups, women groups, etc.) in completing the main assignment. This assignment requires students, in groups, to contribute their creative skills and knowledge to solve local problems, and/or to create or add values to existing local products/ businesses, by also putting social, cultural, and environmental aspects into consideration. At the end of the term, the class produces about 50 prototypes of solutions for local issues as a result of the students' creative interventions, in collaboration with local neighbourhoods and communities. These prototypes are exhibited as a final exam that also invites all partners, including Bandung Municipality and potential stakeholders who can bring the prototypes into realisation.

BANDUNG DESIGN ARCHIVE BY RUPA DESAIN

Rupa Desain was formed in 2017 by a group of designers whose concerns mainly focus on archiving design works and other objects, stories, documents, and all that are related to the development of Design in Bandung, both as an academic discipline and a profession. Rupa Desain's main project is Bandung Design Archive, which includes digitizing of design artefact, video documentation of prominent Bandung designers/ experts/ scholars, and dissemination of archive contents through talk shows and discussion sessions.

▲ Bandung Creative Hub

BANDUNG CREATIVE HUB

Bandung Creative Hub (BCH) is the first facility in Indonesia that is specifically dedicated to creative industry activities, of which building and operational expenses are fully initiated and funded by Bandung Municipality.

BANDUNG CREATIVE BELT

Bandung Creative Belt is a recent initiative of Bandung Municipality, where particular districts in Bandung City are mapped for their potentials in creative industries and actors/stakeholders. The result of this mapping becomes the main reference for “creative industry tourism” itineraries that are being designed and piloted, started in 2018.

COWORKING SPACES FOR BANDUNG DISTRICTS

The program to provide one coworking space for each district in Bandung is among Bandung Municipality priorities, in order to improve the economy through community development. It aims to create an ecosystem that encourages entrepreneurship and to support its growth to achieve a high level of competitiveness, independence and capability to maintain its own progress. These coworking spaces utilise existing places in the neighbourhoods that can be frequented conveniently by local inhabitants; designed as a space for interaction and collaboration among all Penta Helix stakeholders, especially in activating local creative industries. A coworking space was prototyped in Sumur Bandung District, and will be established in all 30 districts in Bandung, each with a slightly different theme, according to the potentials and characteristics of the districts and the local governments. Each coworking space has specific curriculum that is relevant to the district's contexts and strongest features.

AIRBORNE.bdg

Airborne.bdg is a project that resulted in a new artwork in Bandung that marks its UCCN membership as a City of Design, which is a mural on top of approximately 150 houses at Linggawastu, a dense urban village located underneath a flyover that functions as the main entrance/exit highway of Bandung. It is one of the first Kampung Kreatif collaborators of BCCF, conducted since 2012, that demonstrates improvements and progress as the results of design thinking implementation and creative programs intervention.

▲ Activities at Simpul

SIMPUL SPACE #4

Simpul Space #4 is the headquarter of Bandung Creative City Forum (BCCF) and Indonesia Creative Cities Network (ICCN); a colonial art deco building located at the heart of the old part of Bandung City, where creative communities from diverse backgrounds gather, collaborate, and build networks.

Simpul, which means “hub”, has an operating cafe that serves coffee from West Java plantations, and a store that sells local brands and products. Activities in Simpul includes discussion sessions, talk shows, exhibitions, performances, workshops and trainings, community gatherings, and so on.

IDEAS

BANDUNG DESIGN BIENNALE

Bandung Design Biennale (BDB) was first initiated in 2017 by Bandung Design Forum, a consortium of Bandung design professionals, motivated by the membership of Bandung as a City of Design in UCCN. The first biennale, although was held at a very small scale, contained an important event: an ongoing conversation themed “Bandung Design 2045”. The second BDB

Bandung Design Biennale activities (2019) ▲ in 2019 brought up the theme Circle, which represents the whole 'circle' of everyone involved in design activities: designers, makers and the public; it also resonates the message of Bandung as the Creative City Capital of Indonesia. This theme is divided into 5 categories: DIY (Do-It-Yourself), Experience, Sustainability, City, and Compact Living. BDB 2019 was joined by 133 participants in 89 events, in more than 60 locations all over the city, in the forms of exhibitions, open studios, design talks, design markets, and so on, synergising the fields of architecture, product design, interior design, graphic design, and innovation.

URBAN GAMES: CITIZENS AS DETECTORS FOR URBAN ISSUES

A number of urban games were created by Bandung Creative City Forum (BCCF) as an effort to share and gain more knowledge about Bandung, for both inhabitants and visitors of all ages and backgrounds, mainly since 2014 when it was realised that even Bandung's own citizens need a fun way to have more engagement with the city, to discover its hidden treasures and potentials, and to gain a deeper sense of belonging.

Among the first were Ulin.bdg ("play"), for 6-10 years old children, a "treasure hunt" game that requires visits to museums and iconic landmarks of Bandung; and Xatrya.bdg ("knight") for 6-14 years old, who are asked to choose one from the three "super powers" (comics, animation, digital application) to solve urban challenges, using design thinking method. Sasab.bdg ("get lost") was created for 16-18 years old youth, a "treasure hunt" game that requires them to venture the highly dense, labyrinth-like urban kampongs, and to use their mobile phones to scan a QR code on a "graffiti" at designated spots where they are supposedly 'lost'. The code does not only show directions, but also asks the players to conduct a certain task, such as answering a quiz and posing for their Instagram story. This game encourages the young citizens to experience a deeper part of the city that they might not be familiar with, and to gain empathy towards the daily conditions faced by the local inhabitants.

▲ Bandung urban games

It became obvious that these games can function as a tool to reveal the city's concealed spots of both problems and potentials; the players become "censors" that indicate the exact locations and conditions of the spots. Therefore, further development of the games involve more elements in Penta Helix stakeholders: Bandung Municipality, researchers, local communities and business owners.

Among the more advanced game is Aksiku. bdg ("my action"), which requires a digital application, aimed for 16-18 years old youth, bringing up the issues of grey water, solid waste, river, and green open space. Groups of students are dispatched into certain sub-districts and geo-tag themselves when they come across the indicated issues along their journey. After the game is completed, the tagging data can also be accessed by Bandung Department of Environment, of Environment and Bandung Sanitary Department; while the students proceed with a design thinking workshop with local inhabitants to solve the issues.

inDESIGNation is a bi-annual product design series of event (exhibition, talks, award, etc.), held by the Alliance of Indonesian Industrial Product Designers (ADPII), that was also triggered by Bandung membership in UCCN.

05

INITIATIVES

Bandung has collaborated with other cities, both within UCCN and other networks, in various events that mainly concern the strategy to implement design, culture and creativity in general to discuss urban issues or to come up with urban-scale solutions.

Macam-macam ASEAN (GeorgeTown, Penang, 29-30 July 2017)

Within SouthEast Asian Creative Cities Network (SEACCN) that was established in 2014 by SouthEast Asian second cities Bandung, Cebu, Chiang Mai, and Penang, a number of collaboration projects have taken places; among other is Macam-macam ASEAN that was held during the annual GeorgeTown Festival in Penang, a marketplace for creative products and brands from SEACCN members. Bandung participation in this event was represented by Bandung Design Forum, a consortium of professional designer associations, supported by Bandung Creative Economy Committee and Bandung Municipality.

*Santos-Bandung Film Festival
(Santos & Bandung, 20-29 October 2017)*

Santos, UCCN City of Film in Brazil, and Bandung, UCCN City of Design in Indonesia - represented by Bandung Film Council - promoted their independent film industries in this festival, where 34 Brazilian and Indonesian films were screened, engaging over 2000 participants in each city. The selected films touch on the strategic SDGs such as genre equality, zero hunger, and life on land. This festival included online debates and interviews between the film directors from one city with the public and media from the other city. Film makers from both cities had a unique opportunity of professional exchange, sharing cinematography techniques and equipment, and receiving reviews on their films.

Smart City Expo & Conference (Jaipur, 26-28 September 2018)

Bandung joined this event as a speaker for a session themed “Cultural Heritage and Local Identity in a Sustainable Tourism Destination”, where Bandung urban games - using all ranges of media and technology, from adventurous printed booklets to digital applications and web-based platforms - are presented as a way for both citizens and visitors to preserve and engage with historical/ heritage sites and artefacts in a dense urban setting, while also involving local inhabitants and authorities.

Global Social Economy Forum (Bilbao, 1-3 October 2018)

Having been active in focusing on social and cultural impacts while engaging in creative businesses and industries, BCCF joined Global Social Economy Forum (GSEF) in 2014, and has since been participating in the general assembly and conferences. At the conference in Bilbao 2018, Bandung participated in a discussion concerning the roles of youth whose demography mainly dominates in developing countries and/or the Southern hemisphere. In GSEF Social Economy and Cities session, themed “values and competitiveness for an inclusive and sustainable local development”, Bandung presented the case of Fashion Village Lab as a pilot of a closed-loop creative economy ecosystem for fashion industry.

Creative Industries Federation International Summit (London, 9 October 2018)

Bandung was invited by British Council to speak in a session themed “new markets for the creative industries”, where Indonesia was brought up as an example of progressively developing countries that combine purpose and profit in a new wave created by global creative and social enterprises; and how this phenomena relates to UK creative industries/companies and institutions.

Chiang Mai Design Week (Chiang Mai, 8-11 December 2018)

Supported by Bandung Municipality and Bandung Creative Economy Committee, Bandung delegates participated in this annual event to strengthen the bond of the network, to exchange experiences, and to find opportunities for further collaboration.

Academic Resources: Art, Design, Environment (ADE) and Arte-Polis.

The fact that Bandung is home to renowned 14 universities that offer the majors of design, art, craft, and architecture has contributed to programs with contents that are heavily academic, yet directly connected to society. Among the universities is Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB), where the oldest faculty of art and design was established in Indonesia. The compulsory class of Art, Design, Environment (ADE) is attended by approximately 250 art & design students each year. With a heavy content on sustainability, students of this class collaborate with local society groups, and use their creative capabilities to solve local problems. Every year, after each term of the class, about 50 prototypes and solutions are produced and implemented by the local society; exhibited during the end-term exam to be viewed by all partners and potential investors. ADE keeps being improved as a pilot where academic institutions can create real impacts to society through art, design, and creativity in general.

The architecture department of ITB has been consistently holding Arte-Polis, a reputable biannual conference on “the making of place” since 2006. Next to its academic merit, where research concerning creativity, built environment, community development, and other relevant subjects are presented and published as proceedings and journals, Arte-Polis has also become a platform for networking, also with globally renowned experts in these fields.

Objectives Connecting research, studies and academia to the development of creative economy ecosystem and creative industries industries sub-sectors; also by direct involvements with local communities and grassroots.

Stakeholders Academia, researchers, students, experts, scholars.

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS

The World Urban Forum 10, Abu Dhabi, February 2020 .

Participation of Bandung in The World Urban Forum 10 (WUF10) in Abu Dhabi, February 2020, is due to the selected proposal on behalf of Indonesia Creative Cities Network (ICCN) for “Voices from Cities” Networking Session, titled “Catha Ekadaksa: 11 Ways towards An Impactful Urban Creative Economy Ecosystem”. As the highest level forum for sustainable urbanism hosted by UN-Habitat, the participation provides an opportunity to strengthen the city’s contribution to Sustainable Development Goals and New Urban Agenda, while also exercising its methodologies and concepts compared to other world cities. The session will involve fellow UCCN creative cities within ASEAN region, UN-Habitat, and UN General Assembly of Partners.

Objectives To learn about similar efforts concerning government-civil society partnerships from different places; to encourage conversations concerning the roles of creativity, culture, and innovation for urban solutions; to provide a communication platform for civil society organisations, particularly those in less represented cities and remote areas.

Stakeholders ICCN, BCCF, ASEAN Creative Cities Network, UN Habitat, UN GAP.

Beneficiaries ICCN and ICCN members (up to 210 cities in Indonesia), ICCN international networks, Indonesian government.

Expected results & outcomes Journals/ articles and (audio, visual) documentations to be disseminated to ICCN members; media exposure; collaborative programs with potential city-partners.

Asia Africa Creative Week, Bandung, April 2020.

Among the most well-known histories of Bandung is the city's role as a host for the memorable Asia-Africa Conference (AAC) in 1955; a high-level meeting of leaders of Asian and African countries, which is said to have inspired these countries to declare independence. A commemoration takes place each year at Gedung Merdeka, the original venue of AAC. The year 2020 will mark AAC's 65th anniversary, where Bandung Municipality plans to hold Asia Africa Creative Week (AACW) to celebrate the milestone. AACW will be attended by Asian and African countries, including those of UCCN members, who will participate in AACW various programs, such as carnivals, workshops, exhibitions, and many more, including a film festival for Asian and African countries.

Objectives AAC 65th commemoration; strengthening friendships and networks among Asian and African countries; exchanging knowledge and experiences, especially in the fields of creative industries.

Stakeholders Bandung Municipality, Indonesia Ministry for Foreign Affairs, local creative communities, media, local businesses, event organisers.

Beneficiaries Bandung Municipality, Indonesia Ministry for Foreign Affairs, (delegates from) Asia & Africa countries, local businesses, Bandung citizens and communities, etc.

Expected results & outcomes Media exposure, documentations, potential collaborative programs.

Connecti:City, 2020.

Connecti:City, an annual conference concerning creative economy ecosystem and creative hubs, started in Bandung, West Java, in 2019; inviting speakers from Asian creative cities (Bali, Singapore, Bangkok, Cebu, Manila, Kobe). This conference, held by West Java Province, commenced in collaboration project between Bandung and Singapore, both the first UCCN City of Design in South East Asian region, designated in 2015. This project is considered experimental, but both parties are keen: it is a co-design project between Bandung and Singapore designers, to co-create objects that may represent both cities' potentials and that could fulfil the needs and requirements of contemporary users and global markets. The project is still in its initial phase and is still ongoing, perhaps until the year 2021; but if it succeeds, it will be expanded to other UCCN members within the region. Therefore, the next Connecti:City events will become an event where follow-ups and expansions of such collaborative projects may take place; by involving more design professionals and experts, also from outside the Asian regions.

Objectives Strengthening friendships and networks among Asian creative cities; exchanging knowledge and experiences, especially concerning creative hubs.

Stakeholders West Java Provincial Government, Bandung Municipality, academia, creative communities

Beneficiaries West Java Provincial Government, Bandung Municipality, professional designer associations, academia/ researchers/ students, creative communities, local businesses Expected results & outcomes Reports/ articles on creative hubs in South East Asian and Asian regions; exchange of knowledge, concepts, methods on creative hubs; media exposure; documentations; potential collaborative programs.

BUDGET

The estimated annual budget for Creative Economy Division, Department of Culture and Tourism of Bandung Municipality, is approximately 4 Billion IDR, or about 288,000 USD. This amount will be added from the budget of other municipal departments that run relevant programs and activities, up to 1 Billion IDR, or about 72,000 USD. Moreover, private sectors also make a contribution through Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and sponsorships, commonly up to 700 Million IDR, or about more than 50,000 USD per year. Other supports for creative economy sector from Bandung Municipality are Intellectual Property registration and facilitation and certification for creative industries actors and professionals.

As for international partnerships and activities, Bandung Municipality would normally access the budget from CSR or sponsorships with endorsements from provincial and central governments, particularly through the Ministry for Tourism and Creative Economy. Programs that involve international partners/ cultural institutions/ funding bodies would require complementary budget and other forms of supports from the partners.

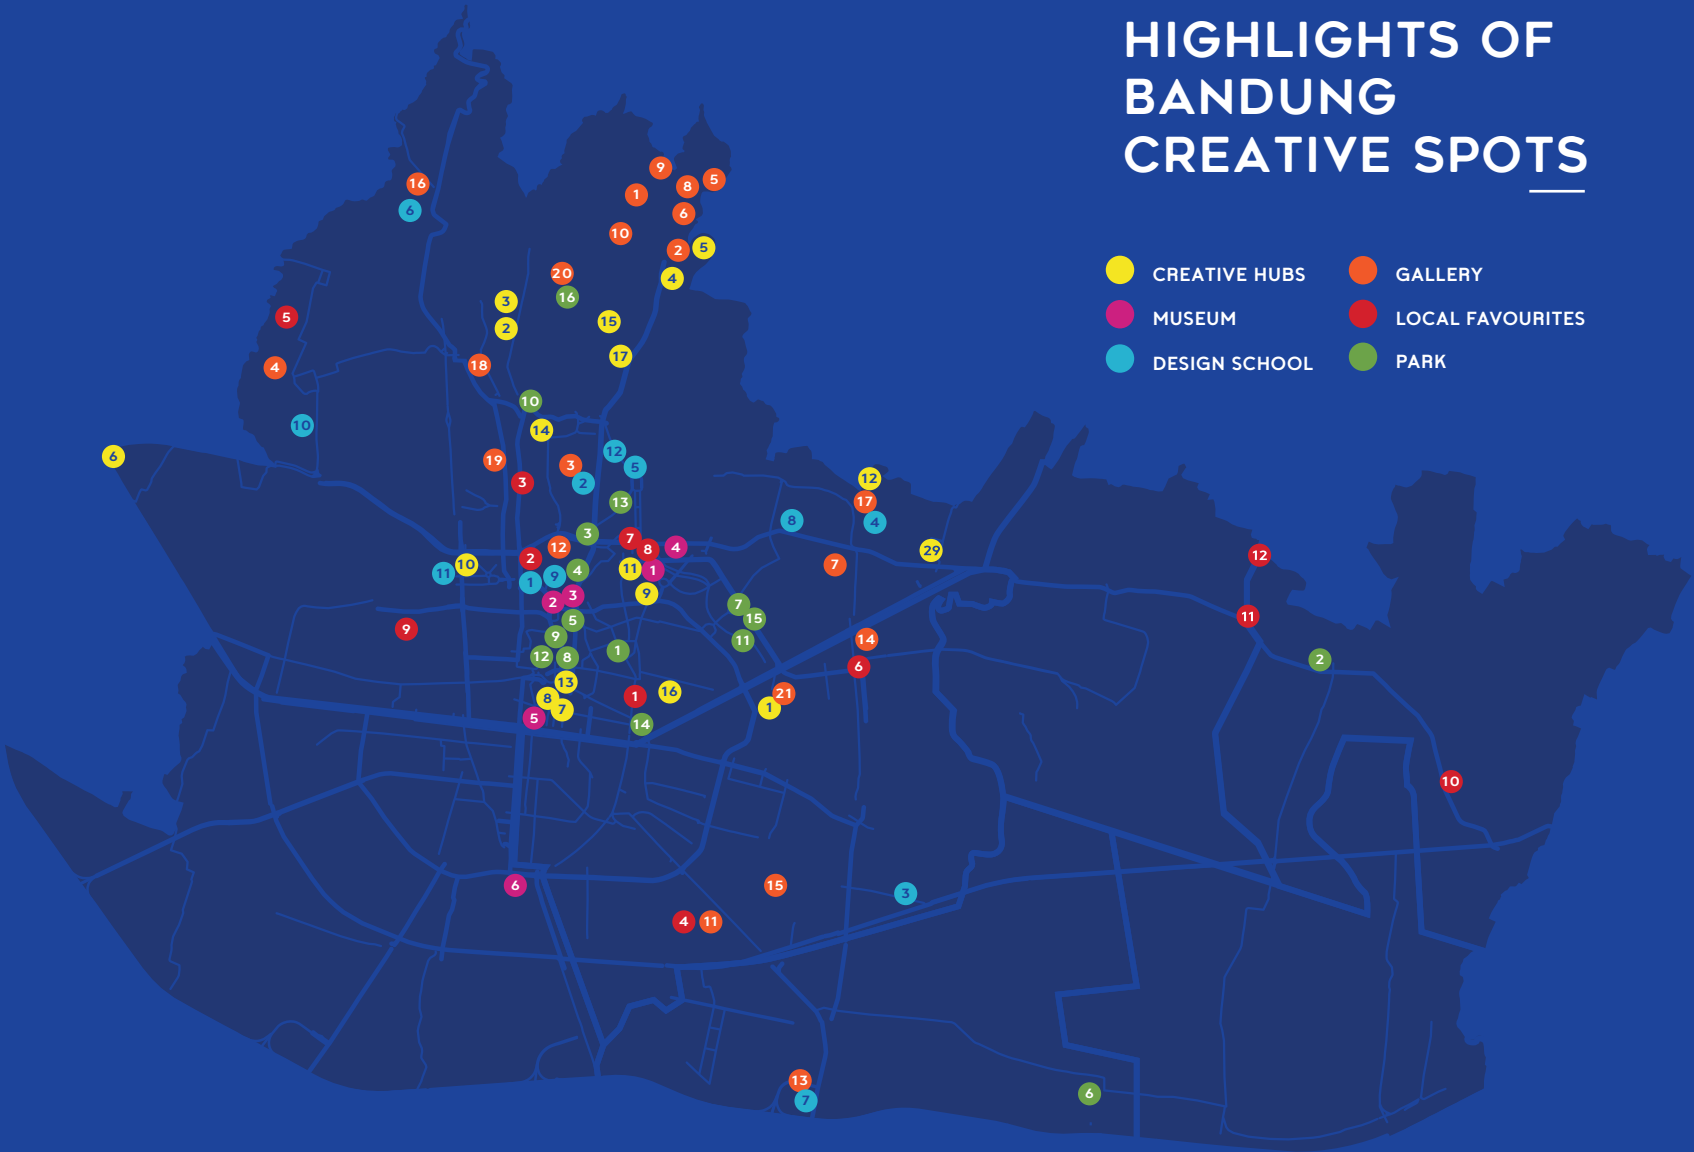

COMMUNICATION & AWARENESS

In order to disseminate the objectives of the programs, Bandung Municipality creates an online portal/ website at <http://patrakomala.disbudpar.bandung.go.id>, that not only provides information and data on creative industries sub-sectors and actors in Bandung, but also functions as a platform for all creative economy stakeholders to broaden their networks and to enhance their professional performances. This portal is designed to also synchronise with the one data policy that is being processed by Bandung Department of Communication and Information, in order to gain relevant updates.

Other than the government's website, creative city programs of Bandung are being disseminated through social media, conventional media such as radio and newspapers, academic journal and publications (due to the abundance of universities/ higher education in the design fields); also through routine exhibition in galleries, events and activities in community hubs, competitions and awards.
