

Cuba's considerations on the 2nd-order draft Strategy of IHP-IX

The program presented is comprehensive, very well elaborated and reflects the demands of these times and the coming ones in terms of Integrated Water Resources Management by Watershed, education, science and innovation, in the scenarios of the ODS, the 2030 development plan and the new education programs.

However, there are the following considerations:

1. Among the alternatives of title we selected the second one changing the word Living for development.
2. In the first paragraph of the Preamble, we consider replacing the word undertaking by programme.

These changes represent the essence of the rest of the document, which is in line with the work implemented in Cuba on the subject, so technically we consider it as appropriate.
