I. The Hague Convention of 1954

1. Article 3 - Safeguarding of cultural property

This Article provides for the obligation of the High Contracting Parties to adopt relevant peacetime safeguarding measures against the foreseeable effects of an armed conflict.

- Has your State undertaken such measures?

YES: NO:

You can complete your answer below, taking into account the guidelines in the model report.

As part of an institutional strengthening process, there is a list of the tangible cultural heritage of movable property and national museums that have been recognized by laws as national heritage. The coordination of this inventory was in charge of the General Directorate of Cultural Heritage. There is no established procedure for updating it, as it requires coordination with the sub-national levels .

Among some of the emergency measures taken for the protection of cultural heritage, informational meetings for custodians and officials of municipalities on the protection measures established in the Hague Convention have been included. Likewise, a management project is the development of a reaction protocol that can regulate in a more timely manner the application of the 1954 Convention.

Difficulties have been identified in the process of applying and adopting the safeguarding measures recommended in the Hague Convention, which stem from the lack of knowledge of this international instrument, the understanding of its measures and the use of the emblem. This is due to the fact that the managers or custodians consider it irrelevant to foresee possible armed conflicts.

2. Article 6 - Use of the distinctive emblem for the marking of cultural property

The 1954 Hague Convention creates a distinctive emblem for the exclusive marking of cultural property, with a view to ensure its recognition, particularly in the event of armed conflict. The marking of cultural property is one of the preparatory measures that can be undertaken in time of peace.

- Has your State marked cultural property by using the distinctive emblem of the Convention?

YES: NO:

You can complete your answer below, taking into account the guidelines in the model report.

One of the central difficulties that has been faced in the process initiated for the identification and marking of heritage assets with the emblem of the Convention has been the understanding of the scope of the same and its purpose, this due to the fact that the entities responsible for the management of the cultural heritage at different levels consider it irrelevant to generate actions that prevent armed conflicts. It represents a challenge to consolidate a level of coordination for management with the Bolivian armed forces through the signing of an Agreement or another that allows to outline a commitment to work and development of regulations or measures that are framed in the application of the Convention of the Beech . Likewise, it is a challenge to be able to incorporate more specific content into professional training regarding the measures recommended by the Hague Convention and its two protocols, its transversality with national regulations, and the measures that the Bolivian State has already managed to apply.

In order to initiate actions that allow the application of the Hague Convention in a more concrete way, a public-private association has been promoted from the state level that involves corporate social responsibility and through this a process of sensitization and awareness with regard to the protection of material cultural heritage . In this context, the Ministry of Cultures, Decolonization and Depatriarchalization has signed an agreement with the company REPSOL that commits the signage with the emblem of a total of 50 heritage assets per year. This signaling procedure is carried out under 2 mechanisms, the first is the prioritization of those heritage assets that have national level declarations and the second is given by the request made from the sub-national levels .

Thanks to the signing of the aforementioned agreement, between 2018 and 2021 the marking of 79 heritage assets has been achieved nationwide.

3. Article 7 - Military measures

This Article provides for the obligations of the High Contracting Parties with regard to the introduction in their regulations or instructions for the use of their armed forces of provisions to ensure compliance with the Convention, as well as to plan or establish within their armed forces, services or specialist personnel whose purpose will be to secure respect for cultural property and to co-operate with the civilian authorities responsible for safeguarding such property. These are obligations to be implemented in time of peace.

- Has your State introduced provisions in the regulations and instructions for your armed forces to ensure compliance with the Convention?

YES: NO:

VII. Enhanced protection mechanism – Opinion survey

Pursuant to Chapter 3 of the 1999 Second Protocol, enhanced protection is granted by the Committee for the Protection of Cultural Property in the Event of Armed Conflict if three criteria are cumulatively met:

- ✓ Cultural property is of the greatest importance to humanity;
- ✓ Cultural property is protected by adequate domestic, legal and administrative measures recognising its exceptional cultural and historical value and ensuring the highest level of protection; and
- ✓ Cultural property must not be used for military purposes or to shield military sites. And the Party which has control over the cultural property has to make a declaration confirming that it will not be used for military purposes or to shield military sites.

As these conditions are set out in an international treaty, their interpretation cannot be made independently of State practice, which is of fundamental importance under international treaty law. Therefore, this national report is an opportunity for the national authorities of the Parties to express their views on the conditions under which enhanced protection is granted.

For each of the conditions set out in Article 10 of the Second Protocol, please answer the following questions, taking into consideration the relevant paragraphs of the Guidelines for the Implementation of the Second Protocol.

- Article 10, paragraph (a) - "The greatest importance for humanity"

Please list the main factors to be undertaken into consideration in determining whether a cultural property is of the greatest importance for humanity?

The main factors considered are the cultural representativeness, the functionality of the cultural asset for the communities that live in the surrounding area or that still make use of cultural assets as part of their cultural and daily practices, the state of conservation.

- Article 10, paragraph (b) - "The highest level of protection"

Please mention the national authorities to be consulted in determining the choice of measures to be adopted to ensure the highest level of protection for a cultural property for which enhanced protection is requested. What measures can ensure the highest level of protection?

This decision should be coordinated between the Ministry of Defence and the Ministry of Cultures, Decolonization and Depatriarchalization.

- Article 10, paragraph (c) - "Not-used for military purposes"

Please mention the national authorities to be consulted in order to take the decision not to use the proposed cultural property for granting enhanced protection for military purposes or to shield military sites?

This decision should be coordinated between the Ministry of Defence and the Ministry of Cultures, Decolonization and Depatriarchalization.
