Periodic reports: Although the Ethnographic Society of Slovakia does not participate in the preparation of periodic reports institutionally, a few of its members do so on behalf of institutions they represent as employees or hired external experts (Ministry of Culture of the Slovak republic, Slovak Intangible Cultural Heritage Centre). On behalf of the Council for the Protection of ICH, one of our members provides direct suggestions regarding the Periodic report's content to the Ministry of Culture of the Slovak republic.

Nominations, proposals: On the national level, the members of our NGO serve as voluntary expert consultants during the application completion or as the co-authors of proposals in close cooperation with local communities, groups, or individuals. Some of them regularly serve as members of the Slovak ICH Centre expert commission for the proposal assessment and as expert opponents in application evaluation (both on the national level).

The Ethnographic Society of Slovakia was established in 1958 at the Slovak Academy of Sciences. Our members are graduates of or lecturers/researchers at all Slovak university departments devoted to ethnology, social anthropology, and museology. Our collective members are primarily museums and other cultural and educational facilities. Our organization's primary importance lies in the extensive ethnographic research on ICH and dissemination of knowledge and data on ICH not only in the academic and university environment, but also communities and groups which provided the ethnographic data. Our society supports research on ICH through institutional activities and activities of its members through:

- Own ethnographic research of ICH among communities and individuals; through sharing and promoting gathered knowledge on ICH among bearers of ICH traditions and following generations,

- Spreading the knowledge and experience through our own scientific journal Etnologické rozpravy/Ethnological Debates, issued twice a year, and ethnographic publications (studies, catalogues, monographs), by creating texts for online Electronic Encyclopaedia on traditional culture (<https://www.ludovakultura.sk/encyklopedia/>),
- Organizing and participating in conferences, scientific seminars, and workshops focused on ICH,
- Becoming a member of the ICH NGO Forum Working group "Research",
- Consulting and expert activities for various types of institutions and organizations.

B.4. Describe your organization's participation in developing policies, as well as legal and administrative measures, for safeguarding intangible cultural heritage. Explain, in particular, how your organization cooperates with communities, groups and, where relevant, individuals.

Not to exceed 250 words

Our society does not participate directly on developing policies institutionally, but its individual members have a particular impact in this respect. They:

- Are members of the Council for the Protection of Intangible Cultural Heritage, which is an advisory body of the Ministry of Culture of the Slovak Republic,
- Are members of the Advisory body for Folklore and Folklorism working under the National Edification Centre (Národné osvetové centrum),
- Are members of the evaluation committees of the Slovak Arts Council for assessment of projects focused on folklore and ICH. In this regard the committee members are supposed to give periodical feedback on assessment measures and by that influence the financial distribution among communities and individuals working on ICH.

B.5. Describe your organization's participation in promoting the role of intangible cultural heritage and its safeguarding in society. Explain, in particular, how your organization cooperates with communities, groups and, where relevant, individuals.

Not to exceed 250 words

The very purpose of the existence of our NGO is to examine and promote the ICH of Slovakia in its diverse forms and social implications. We do that primarily through our research and publications activities. As a group of scientists and lecturers, we not only examine ICH in its living representations, but we try in our scientific work to understand and investigate relevant social processes affecting ICH development, transformation, and modification. We try to identify and understand positive and negative cultural or economic forces that impact the ICH or local communities as its original bearers. All our promotion outputs focused on the ICH, and the mission of the 2003 Convention aim at spreading information on ICH and strengthening the common knowledge on intangible cultural heritage and related social processes.

In addition, many members of our society are themselves active bearers of various forms of intangible cultural heritage. We are members of folklore groups, we actively participate in festivals as artists, we study and perform ICH.

B.6. Describe your organization's participation in raising awareness about intangible cultural heritage. Explain, in particular, how your organization cooperates with communities, groups and, where relevant, individuals.

We do that primarily through our research and publication activities. Our members are very active in their endeavours in ICH popularisation (expertise, consultation, lecturing, performing). Thanks to our latest cooperation with other ICH NGO Forum members, we have had the opportunity to observe and get to know many effective

Thanks to the membership in various types of juries, they may have a particular impact on the artistic forms of ICH and the quality of their scenic presentation at folklore competitions. E.2. Does your organization have experience in working across several intangible cultural heritage domains? Please describe your experiences.

Not to exceed 250 words

Yes, it does. All of our members are specialists in oral traditions in rural and urban communities. As the university, academy, and museum employees, and ethnology and social anthropology M.A. and Ph.D. students, they conduct research in all main ICH domains listed in Article 2. They publish various types of publications and dissemination materials that show a domain crossover both on the level of the research object and cultural context taken into account during the research data gathering and analysis. Since the ICH phenomena are often multi-layered cultural and social entities, they frequently represent a complex system or involve more elements outlined by the ICH domain typology (e.g. traditional costumes, customary culture, festivities, regional music tradition, and particular types of crafts). Some of our members are also lecturers in traditional music and dance at summer festivals and folklore revival movement events. At least ten members of our organization are part of program and dramaturgy committees of important folklore festivals in Slovakia (IFF Myjava, CIOFF festival in Východná, IFF Koliesko in Kokava, and IFF in Heľpa). Six members of our organization deal with various ICH domains safeguarding as members of the Council for the Protection of Intangible Cultural Heritage (advisory body of the Ministry of Culture of the Slovak Republic), one of them is the chair of the Council. The most active ones are regular members of the evaluation commissions of the Slovak Arts Council. Their primary role is to assess project applications aimed at safeguarding, performing, or scientific inquiry in traditional folk culture or ICH in Slovakia.

E.3. Describe the experience of your organization in evaluating and analysing documents such as proposals or applications.

Not to exceed 250 words

Our members have been closely cooperating with the Slovak Intangible Cultural Heritage Centre established by the Ministry of Culture of the Slovak Republic since its beginning in 2008. The Slovak ICH Centre is responsible for the implementation of the UNESCO 2003 Convention in the Slovak Republic. The cooperation takes place on different levels. The national level concerns the listing processes of the Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Slovakia and the Register of Best Safeguarding Practices in Slovakia. Our members:

- Serve as voluntary expert consultants during the application completion or as co-authors

- of proposals in close cooperation with local communities, groups, or individuals;

E.5. Does your organization have experience in working at the international level or the capacity to apply local experience to an international context? Please describe such experience.

Not to exceed 250 words

Yes, we do. Not as a whole, but our members have personal experience with international project cooperation in the fields of ethnology, social and cultural anthropology, visual anthropology, and ethnomusicology. They are members or represent a certain institution in international associations (ICTM /UNESCO/, SIEF, CIOFF, ICOM). All our active members present and promote their ICH-concerning activities on various platforms (e.g. conferences and symposiums, workshops, classrooms, invited lectures, media, and internships). In 2023 we became a member of the Research Working group of the ICG NGO Forum to broaden our capacities and experience in this matter and to invest our expertise and knowledge in the current projects of the WG.
